Such was the exclamation that fell upon my ear, the other morning, as I sat at the open win dow sewing, and at the same moment a small cloud of dust swept in upon me, and I caught a glimpse of two pair of heels, belonging respectively to my little cousins Anna and Susie, as they whirled around the house corner, while a few seconds after, the long, cadaverous form of Parson 8—, clad in the "customary suit of solemn black," darkened the window. Casting upon me a look, such as one might suppose the upon me a look, such as one might suppose the angels bestow upon the fallen, with a grim "good morning. When Senator Douglas was asked whether, in Tuily exclude slavery, he said that they could "lawfully" do so by omitting to pass such laws as would be necessary for its protection. The Dred Scott decision recognizes the right of the slaveholder to carry his slave property into the Territories. This right is an abstract constitutional right, the inalienable existence of which is admitted by the slave broad to have a constitution of the inalienable existence of which is admitted by the slave broad to have a counselor, is disposed to reside at Caryville, Chelsea; but some of the citizens thereabout are opposed to having him for a neighbor, and have estate to him that Mr. M.'s design will probably be defeated. The Evening Gazette sava: tional right, the indienable existence of which is admitted by the Supreme Court. It follows, then, as the Court very justly argues, that Congress has no power to prohibit slavery in the Territories, because, by so doing, it would violate an imprescriptible constitutional right; and still less is such a right possessed by the Territorial authorities, which derive all their eral Government.

This doctrine applies strictly to positive, prohibitory legislation. But it is perfectly evident that, to secure the full enjoyment of any property right whatever, something more is necessary than a mere judicial declaration of the existence of the a mere judicial declaration of the existence of the right. There must be laws for the protection of the property: the statutes must point out some issue. the property; the statutes must point out some way in which the property may be recovered, if —A Bank "Blown Ur."—The Bank of Mem-

This is what Senator Douglas has stated, as a legal position, in his Freeport speech. He did not go to draw the conclusions which Southern men would draw, and which Southern statesmen have drawn, from these admitted and indisputation.

-Mrs. Stowe Entertained by French Au-THORESSES.—The Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Bulletin writes:

A number of Blue Stockings gave a dinner at a restaurant in the Palais Royal, on Monday last, to Mrs. Beecher Stowe, at which no masculine member of the republic of letters was to be admitted. Three exceptions, however, found favor in the eyes of the dinner committee, on account of their feminine names; these privileged literateurs were Marie Arcard, Marie E and Eleonore de Vaulabelle.

Many believed that God and matter were both eternal. Some of the ancients taught that the gods were produced from the earth. All matter with which we come in contact is compound—made up of elements. Water, simple as it appears to be, consists of two elements —oxygen and hydrogen—uniting by definite proportions. Air is composed of three, with slight traces of others are invited to attend. All business transactions of these elements unite by force of laws, most wisely arranged, acting by strict mathematical proportions. The wisdom and power of a creating Jeck hovah are clearly manifest in these laws of affinity, arranged with perfect definiteness, both of weight arranged with perfect definiteness, both of weight constitutions of the actions of all the elements of matter.

The next section of this meeting.

The exercises were commenced by reading the 19th Psalm and fervent prayer.

Mr. John Cooper gave the class his views on Geology as confirming the Mosaic account of Creation. From his remarks the following state-

Before the facts on which this branch of natural history is founded, were accurately ascer-tained, various objections to the Mosaic history of the creation were started by certain skeptical philosophers; but it is now found that the more accurately and minutely the system of nature is explored, the more distinctly do we perceive the harmony that subsists between the records of Revelation and the operations of the Creator in the material world. Some garbled facts have been triumphantly exhibited which appear to contradict the Bible, but recent discoveries show the subsists between the records of which compose our coal beds. Moses describes this when he represents God as saying: "Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed." Vegetation is indeed of two orders: those not proposed which appear to companie the bible, but recent discoveries show the substitution of the creation of the crea tradict the Bible, but recent discoveries show that the truths of sacred history rest on a solid and immutable basis, and as Geologists proceed in their researches, still more sensible proofs of the authenticity of Revelation will be brought to the authenticity of Revelation will be brought to mal life rose next after vegetables, for animals mal life rose next after vegetables, for animals of Dr. Easterly's Salt Rheum and life rose next after vegetables, for animals of Dr. Easterly's Salt Rheum and Sarsaparilla, and Gridley's Salt Rheum and Sarsa substantial theory of the earth.

The rocks of which the crust of the earth is The rocks of which the crust of the chiefly composed, occur in beds or layers. The first are the primary rocks, which constitute the moving creature that hath life." Now, millions in great frame-work of the globe, and the founda-tion upon which the other rocks are supported It is therefore supposed that they were the earliest formed, and are hence denominated primitive or primary. One of the principal rocks of this class is granite, which is composed of quartz, feld-spar and mica. The second class are the transi-tion rocks; here we find the rudiments of vitality, the dawn of organization. Sea-shells of various descriptions are found which afford decisive evidence that these rocks were formed after the creation of organized beings. The next class is the secondary. Geologists now divide these rocks into upper secondary and lower secondary. The principal secondary formations are: the coal formation in the lower secondary series, and the rock salt or saliferous formation in the upper secondary. The upper secondary rocks comprise all the different formations above the great coal formations, to the upper limit of the chalk series. These rocks are divided into the three following formations: 1. Chalk rocks; 2. Opitic rock, limestone and clay; 3. Red sandstone. The red sandstone formation is characterized by the first appearance of the remains of lizard shaped animals. The remains of a number of species have been found, differing in their appearance from the crocodile and alligator, some of which must have been from 60 to 120 feet in length. The teeth and bones of fish and reptiles are abundant, some of which must have been at least 70 feet in length and the highth of an elephant. Then comes the diluvial and alluvial formations, in which the bones of large animals are found. The mammoth is found in diluvial gravel in many countries.

Organic remains are not found promiscuously, but each formation has its peculiar group of animals and plants. They are found in groups, as living plants and animals are, and we conclude that they are the remains of once living plants and animals which occupied the ocean and the dry land, grouped as we now find them, and that, as they died, they were enveloped in rock. It is considered that of more than 3,000 species of plants and animals that are found in a fossil state in the secondary rocks, not a single species corresponds with any now living. It is a remarkable fact that notwithstanding the great variety of fossils observed in the early formations, the remains of Man are not to be found. The remains of human beings are only found under cir-cumstances which indicate that man was created at a period posterior to those great changes and idea that the worlds were brought into existence wishes it to be understood, or he has to give a full by God from nothing, yet it is a matter of rational inference that they were so created. It is very fact that the word God is here used without such an inference as can not be resisted without such definition, that the writer indorsed the views doing violence to the fundamental laws of human belief. This magnificent frame of the universe is said to have been brought into existence by is said to have been brought into existence by God, the God of Israel, the self-existent and eternal Jehovah. This declaration was intended to teach the Israelites and all others, that the material world did not arise without a cause; that the heautiful order now exhibited did not originate from the fortuitous concourse of atoms; that it was not made out of pre-existent materials, or de-In opposition to all such chimerical and atheistical notions, Moses declares: "In the beginning, is used to denote the commencement of an era, dently implies that, at what period soever in the long lapse of past duration, any part of the material creation was brought into existence, it derived that existence from the self-existent and derived that existence from the self-existent and Eternal divinity. Had Moses said that the first materials of the creation were brought into existence about 2500 years before the time in which omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent intelliis tence about 2500 years before the time in which he wrote, then there would have been an almost insuperable difficulty in reconciling the discoveries insuperable difficulty in reconciling the discoveries are it being statement. But no such as have done altogether according to the cry of it, have done altogether according to the cry of it, it is come unto me, and if not, I will know," of Divine Revelation. Millions of ages may have elapsed since the first portions of matter were created, or previous to what is termed the first day's work in the arrangement of our globe, for day's work in the arrangement of our globe, for the same subject will be continued on Sunday, day having expired, the society adjourned, aught the Scripture asserts to the contrary. It has been supposed by some that the rocks with all the fossil petrifactions they contain were created, just as we find them, in a moment of time. The man who can believe, for example, that the iguanadon, 70 feet long, 10 in hight, and 15 in girth, was created in the midst of consolidated sandstone, and placed down 1000 or 1200 feet from the surface of the earth, in a rock composed of ruins and fragments, and containing vegetables, shells, fish and rolled pebbles—such a man can believe anything with or without evidence. But why should the idea of the high antiquity of the earth be repulsive when it is not in the least contradictory to Scripture? that have taken place in the constitution of our rival in Noble County there were demonstrations globe, there is the clearest evidence that an Allwise Providence has directed every event. Amid the convulsions which have rent its strata, that have "carried hills into the midst of the seas," earnestly hoped, will occur. Deputy United and raised mountains from the bottom of the States Marshal Seely left the city yesterday to ocean, there are striking indications of Divine benevolence in preparing our world for the com-fort and accommodation of its inhabitants. The facts disclosed by geological investigation tend charge. to enlarge our conceptions of the Divinity, and of the sublimity of His plans and arrangements in the Universe, and to demonstrate that His creating power has been repeatedly exercised during countless ages, in calling into existence numerous orders of beings, and in carrying forward his arrangements to a glorious consummati Prof. Young congratulated the class upon the goodly numbers in attendance, and upon the presence of the ladies. He hoped the interest would continue to increase, so that the place would become too small for their meetings. He had the honor to propose the subject they were discussing, and was happy to find that it had awakened so much interest.

ducing seed which came first, grew rapidly and were exceedingly great in amount, and then the higher formed plants of later times. Perhaps the first era of animal life as existing in the ocean: upon millions of the small animals dwelling in ocean beds, lived and died ages upon ages before the days of Adam. Their remains are now with us. When tried by all possible chemical tests, they are shown to have once been animals. Yet numerous strata of slow forming rocks are laid above them. Next, equally by Moses' narrative and the facts of science, do dry land animals ap-pear. Wings were indeed added to some early fish, but as the waters receded into the valleys and perfect wings and flew abroad over all the earth. Then last of the creation came the great beasts, whose remains are found in our surface deposits, and mark the close of a great cycle. Finally, man appears, the last and crowning work of God. The writer of the first two chapters of Genesis did not entertain these ideas. He was a Polytheist. The word Elahin is the plural of El. which signifies God. The fact that the writer used the plural of this wor which signifies God, and the manner in which e speaks of these Gods, as "Let us make man," "Let us make man in our own image," proves sufficiently these assertions. Circular of the Law Department. HON. JOHN A. MATSON, PROFESSOR.

There is one Session a year in this Department, commencing on the third Wednesday in November, and continuing three months.

Instruction is given by Lectures, and by Examinations and Expositions, in connection with Recitations.

Two Classes are formed at the commencement of each Session—a Junior and a Senior. The Junior Class is composed of those who are commencing the study, or who have not progressed far enough to enter the Senior Class. The Senior Class is composed of the Junior Class of the previous session, or those of them who may attend, with such ethers as have passed through the course prescribed for the Junior Class. or one embracing substantially the same branches. branches.

As in the Junior Class, the first principles are taught which are to form the basis of after-acquired knowledge in the Profession, those who can attend but one Session are advised to enter that, unless fully prepared for the Senior Class.

Course of Study in the Law Depart-ment.

Blackstone's Commentaries, Stephens on Pleading, First Volume of Greenleaf's Evidence, and Adams on Equity. In vaca ion, the Students of this Class are advised to review the foregoing Studies, and to read in addition thereto, Walker's Introduction to American Law, Chitty's Pleadings, Starkie on Evidence, and Story's Equity Juris-

Statute and Construction.

In pursuing each branch in each Class, the Student is required to read the parts of the Statutes of the State re-recommended.

bles us to produce a movement at one-hulf the price of any foreign movement of the same quality; and we guarantee ALL FOR MIGN WATCHES ARE MADE BY HAND, the American watches being the only ones made by machinery upon a uniform system throughout. Nearly all hand made watches are defective, and are continually getting out of order. In many parts of the country it is impossible to find good watch repairers, and watch repairing is always uncertain and expensive. The introduction of American watches disposes of this difficulty, and country me chants, as well as watch dealers, can keep watches as a part of their miscellaneous stock, and thus supply their customers with a NEW STAPLE, which may be used as any other article, without ystery or humbug. Hamilton's Burglar Proof Lock. THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT EVER MADE IN LOCKS!

THE ONLY SAFE LOCK FOR HOTEL THE ONLY SAFE LOCK FOR HOTEL, rooms, state-rooms, outside doors for stores and dwellings, prisons, &c. The patent was obtained by J. J. Hamilton, of Newcastle, Indiana, March 27, 1858, fo double lifts and slides for the keyholes, improvements which no other lock possesses. It is proof against burglars; and, after locked, it can not be opened from the opposite side without destroying the lock. One thousand dollars is offered to any one who can pick the lock from the side opposite where it has been locked.

The right to sell the locks is offered to all hardware dealers in the country, and the locks furnished in quantities to suit purchasers. The Burglar Proof Lock can be sold at a small advance upon the price of ordinary locks, to which they are in every respect superior. The locks are now being manufactured in New Britain, Conn., and Pittsburg, Penn.
